STORMBUDDY NETWORK GUIDE

Channel Partner Manual

Apply to the Partner Network, accept the partner agreement and track your application from your partner dashboard. Channel partners distribute StormBuddy software — they do not sell roofing materials.

Who it is for: Roofing consultants, coaches, trade associations, buying groups and software resellers that introduce StormBuddy software to contractors.

Sign in: stormbuddy.co/auth · Program page: stormbuddy.co/partners

In this guide

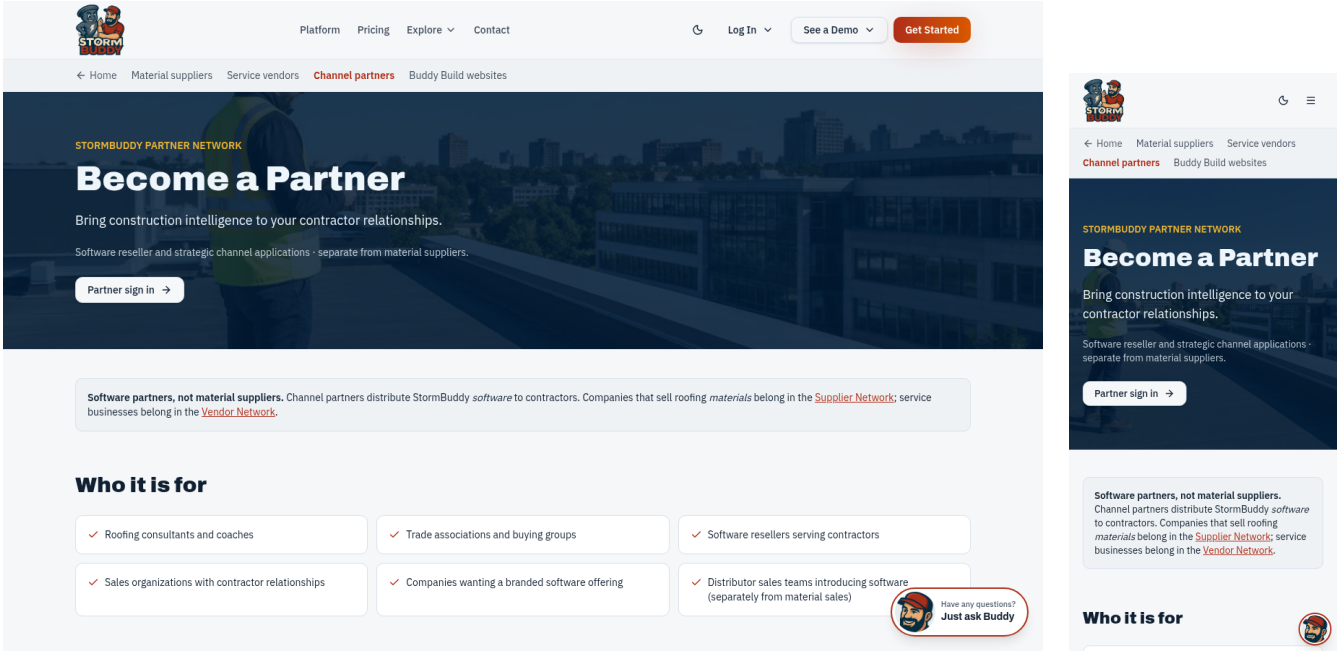

1. Learn about the Partner Network
2. Sign in or create your account
3. Apply from your partner dashboard
4. Review and approval

Screens were captured from the StormBuddy portal using a new, pending company, so lists start empty.

STEP 1

Learn about the Partner Network

The Become a Partner page explains referral, reseller, software distribution and white-label partner types and who each is for. Companies that sell roofing materials belong in the Supplier Network instead.

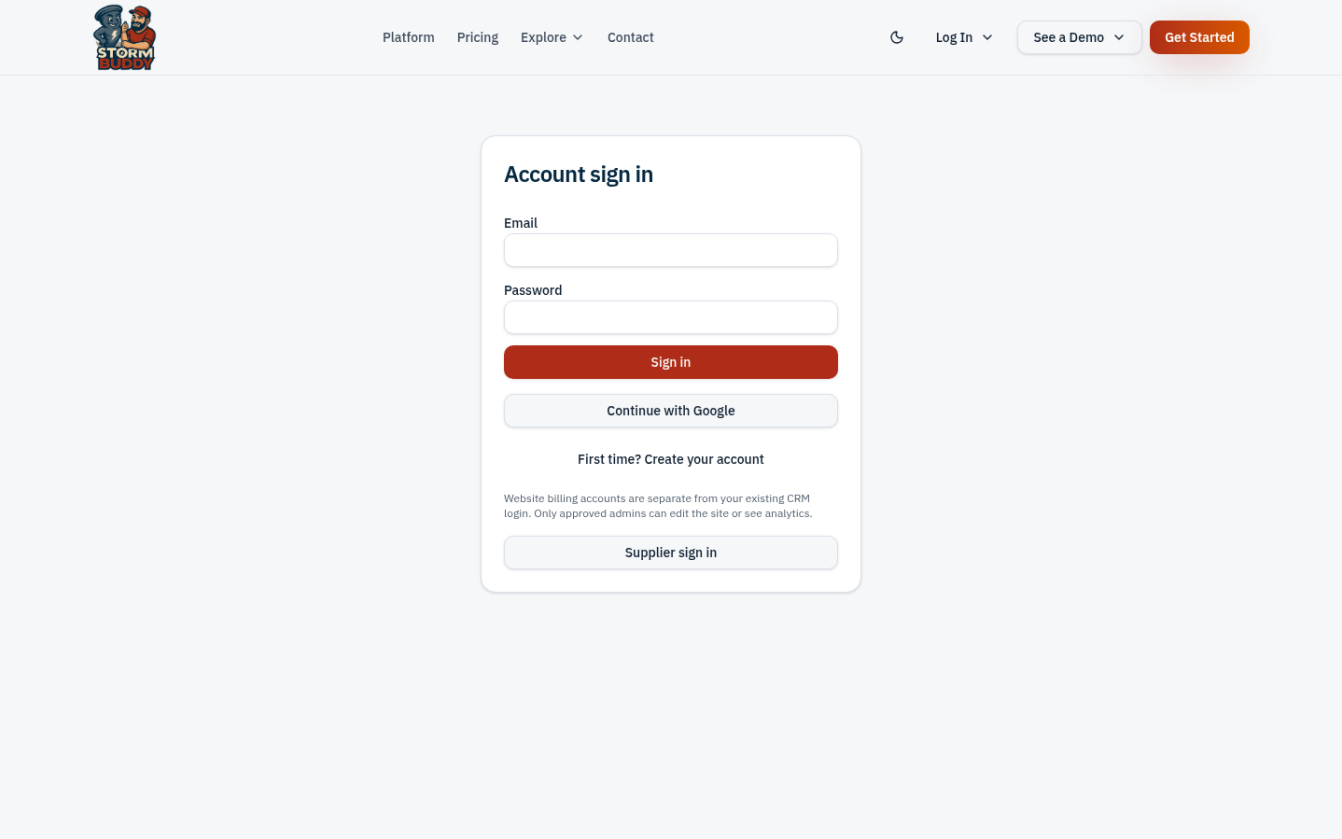

Desktop (left) and phone (right).

STEP 2

Sign in or create your account

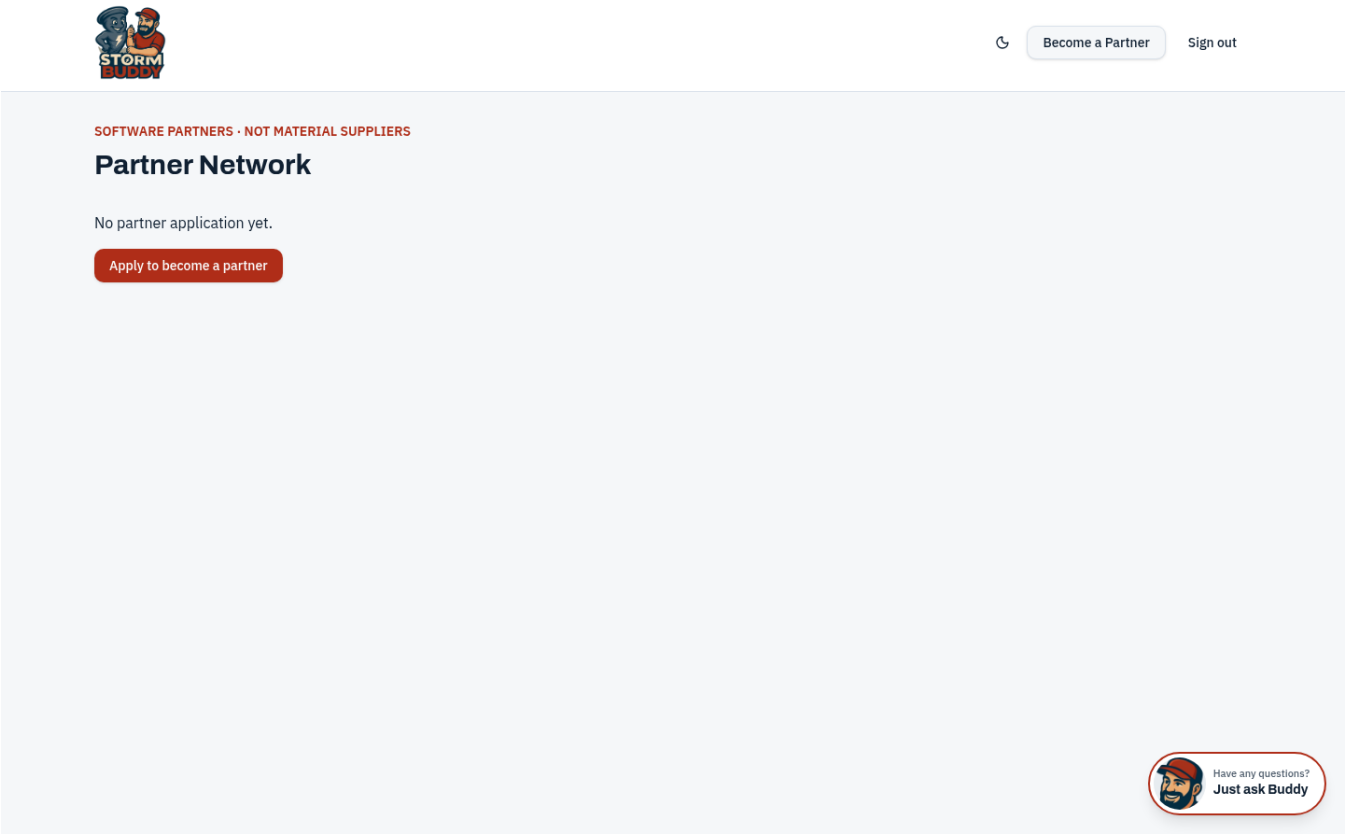

Partners use a regular StormBuddy account. Sign in, or create one with your email and password, then return to the partner dashboard.

STEP 3

Apply from your partner dashboard

With no application yet, the dashboard shows "Apply to become a partner". Complete the application form and accept the partner agreement. Your application, agreement acceptance and every later change are recorded.

STEP 4

Review and approval

StormBuddy reviews each application. Once approved, your dashboard shows your status, brand settings and referral records. Custom domains require a DNS ownership check before they can be used.

Questions

Are commissions or payouts active?
Not yet. Partner payouts, commission rates and subscription synchronization require approved terms and are not paid through the platform today.

Can I white-label StormBuddy?
Brand settings can be stored now; branded hosting and messaging are subject to setup and approval.

I sell materials — is this for me?
No. Use the Material Supplier Manual and the Supplier Network.